THREE PASS TO GREAT BEYOND

ROBERT KEITH CARTER

Residents of Irma and district were saddened to know of the sudden death of little Robert Keith, fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Carter, at the very early age of three years and four months, on February 13, after a very brief illness.

Mrs. Carter, mother of the deceased, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fenton, also of Irma, and the passing of little Keith makes the first break in the two generations.

Besides the sorrowing parents, there survive him four brothers, Clarence, Alphonse, Ernest and Colin.

The funeral was held from the United church on Saturday, February 15th, the Rev. E. F. Kemp officiating. His message based on John 14:8,—"Show us the Father and it sufficeth" proved a source of comfort and strength.

In spite of the severe weather, the church was well filled.

The pall bearers were Bob Simmerman, Bob Charter, Arthur Peterson and Arthur Knudson.

The sincere sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family in their sad bereavement.

Expressive tributes were received from the following: Mother, daddy and brothers; Auntie George, Uncle Martin, Joy and Arnold; Uncle Eldon, Auntie Isabell and cousins; Uncle Gordon, Auntie Myrtle and Reta; Auntie Inez; Uncle Ralph, Orville and Mavis, Thorsby, Alta.; Grandma, Grandpa, Uncle Stuart and Auntie Rena; Uncle Johnny and Aunt Lex, Edmonton, Alta.; C. S. C. Hill, Fred and Irene; May, Sigurd and Garth; Jack, Alice and Jackie; Mr. and Mrs. Foxwell and Joyce; Pryce Jones and family; Walter, Mazel, Malcolm and June; Mr. and Mrs. J. Osted and family; Mr. J. Hedley and Mrs. I. Knudson; Irma Ladies' Aid and W.M.S.; Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Thunell, Viking; Irma L.O.B.A., No. 974.

Interment took place in the Irma cemetery.

Sleep on dear one and take thy rest; God calleth those He loveth best; Thy angel face we all did see, But soon we were deprived of thee. So sleep, beloved, and take thy rest; God calleth thee, whom He loved best.

JOHN W. JACK

We are very sorry to report the death of Mr. John W. Jack, at Poe, Alberta, on February 19th. It will be remembered the late Mr. Jack lived in Irma with his wife and daughter Olive a few years ago, and worked with his uncle, Mr. S. G. Simmons. While he was here he secured a position as grain buyer for the Northern Elevator Co. at Poe, which he has held ever since. Five years ago Mrs. Jack died and now Mr. Jack has been called, leaving little 8 year old Olive alone. The late Mr. Jack's parents live at Clyde, where Mr. Jack, who is a brother of Mrs. S. G. Simmons of Irma, is post master. Johnny had many friends in and around Irma who will learn with deep regret of his passing.

SARAH CURFMAN

The funeral of the late Sarah Curfman, for some years a resident of the Irma district, took place on Friday afternoon, February 14th, 1936, from the Irma United church, the body having been brought to Irma from Calder, Alta., where death occurred on February 4th, and where Mrs. Curfman had made her home since 1925. Rev. A. D. Richard, of Calder United church, Edmonton, officiated, Rev. Mr. Kemp of Irma assisting.

Mrs. Pryce Jones rendered as a solo "The Old 'Rugged Cross" specially requested by the deceased. Floral tributes were sent from Mrs. Duffy and Mrs. Walker of Edmonton and Mrs. I. C. Knudson of Irma.

The following acted as pall bearers: Messrs. A. Fischer, R. C. McFarland, J. A. Hedley, Walter Renwick, R. W. Maguire and Chas. Wilbraham.

Interment was made in the Irma cemetery beside her husband who pre-deceased her in 1914.

Mrs. Curfman is survived by one son, Roy, of Edmonton, and grand-children, who wish to thank all for their tributes and help at this sorrowing time.

Mrs. Curfman will be well remembered as having been in charge of a cottage hospital on the outskirts of Irma village and many of the younger

United Church Notes

Mr. N. S. Johnson and Rev. E. F. Kemp were the delegates from Irma to the meeting of the Wainwright Presbytery held in Tofield on Monday and Tuesday, February 17th and 18th. All points from Edgerton to Tofield were represented, together with the Superintendent of Missions, Rev. Dr. Nicoll of Saskatoon.

Rev. R. W. Griffith, of Jarrow, chairman of the Presbytery, presided; Rev. T. E. Armstrong of Wainwright, secretary, had charge of the order of business. Owing to the lateness of the train on Monday, the sessions planned for that day could not be held so there was a very full day's business crowded into Tuesday from early morning till late at night.

The following figures taken from the statistical report for 1935 give some idea of the work carried on in the Presbytery. Pastoral charges, 9; Preaching points, 33; Infant baptisms, 59; Marriages, 36; Burials, 43; membership at the beginning of year, 840; given by profession of faith, 45; by letter, 44; Loss, by death, 7; by removal, 60; membership at end of year, 862, a net gain of 22; Sunday schools, 26; membership, 1263; Mid-week groups, 24; membership, 87; W.M.S., 8; membership, 108; Ladies' Aids, 20; membership, 364; total value of church property, $55,327; debts, $1,457; raised for local church purposes (exclusive of ministers' salary), $5,065; for ministers' salaries, $8,102; for Missions, by W. M. S. $31; by churches $854; total amount raised for all purposes, $14,595.

It is not possible here to give the comparative figures for the previous year, but they bring out the interesting fact that notwithstanding substantial decrease in financial returns, the churches have made progress—showing gains in church membership, Sunday school scholars and members of other societies. It is said that there is little romance in figures. Perhaps not; figures are but symbols, yet related to life they are very revealing.

The foregoing figures, to the discerning, bear witness to the fact that many loyal and devoted workers throughout this part of the country have "carried on" for the Master, sustained by His power and inspired by His spirit.

NOTICE

The following letter has been received from the Department of Agriculture:

Re Snut Treatment for Frosted Seed

A great deal of the seed grain to be sown in Alberta this year was damaged by frost. Studies carried out at the University of Alberta indicated that the viability of frosted grain may be seriously impaired by the use of formalin as a treatment for smut.

It is suggested, therefore, that farmers consider treating their seed such as Improved Cereals or Lysostan.

If formalin is used the strength of the solution should not be stronger than that recommended (1 part for-malin to 320 parts of water).

Will you please give this matter your attention by discussing it with farmers whenever the occasion permits.

(Signed) O. S. Longman,

Field Crops Commissioner.

The Farm Problem For 1936

At this time of the year farm owners, farm operators and others interested in agricultural production are necessarily giving a great deal of thought and attention to the all-important problem of what to raise and how much to produce during the 1936 season.

Time was when this problem, if it was a problem at all, was a comparatively simple one. All that was necessary to do was to divide the land already prepared and the additional acreage to be prepared in the spring into two portions, one area to be seeded to wheat and the other to oats, with some provision for a small plot for vegetables for household use. In those days there were one or two standard varieties of wheat and oats and all the farmer had to plan in advance was which of these he would seed, and when the spring came to go ahead and seed it. Having done this, his chances of reaping a fair crop yielding him a reasonable return for his labor were pretty good.

But those days are gone and probably gone forever. Down the corridor of the past two decades the problem of what to raise and how much of it has become more complex with each succeeding year, and to-day the question bristles with so many complications and ramifications as to require the wisdom of a Solomon and the acumen of the proverbial Philadelphia lawyer, plus the insight of a skilful prognosticator if a reasonably satisfactory answer is to be the outcome.

If the farm operator in the prairie provinces wants to eliminate the gamble from his coming season's activities, he must not only be an experienced tiller of the soil and husbandman, but he also needs to be a student, a scientist, an economist and a meteorological expert. In other words he must achieve the unattainable.

When preparing his plans for the year's work the farmer not only has to take into consideration the condition of his land, the state of its suitability and preparedness for various types of crops, the probable availability of the kind of seed he would like to sow, the nature and extent of the hazard to which various crops and varieties may be subjected to deterioration and loss by insect pests and diseases, the probable effect of prospective weather conditions on those crops, the availability of nutriment in the soil required by different types of crops, the probable demand for the resultant yield in the local and world markets but many other factors which, for lack of space, must be dismissed in the auctioneer's phrase "too numerous to mention."

Many of these questions the farmer, because of his own circumstances and local conditions must decide for himself with very little assistance from outside sources; but fortunately there is aid available for him in his efforts to weigh probabilities and prospects of the effect of market trends, market conditions, national policies and to some extent even international situations and relations on his intended activities, but even the information available on these factors can only be a guide, subject as they are and more particularly to the vagaries of market and rapid fluctuations.

One of the most valuable of these guides, entitled "The Agricultural Situation and Outlook, 1936" has just been issued by the Dominion department of agriculture with the co-operation of the department of trade and commerce. The information it contains is compiled by the sub-committee on the agricultural outlook of the National Advisory Committee on Agricultural Services.

The government pamphlet contains a careful and concise survey of agricultural conditions as they existed in Canada in 1935, together with industrial conditions as they affected agriculture, beneficially and adversely, and the prospective position of agriculture for 1936, including some specific conclusions which cannot fail to be of material aid to every farmer who reads it.

As the foreword to this 52-page bulletin says: "This annual review of the position of Canadian agriculture contains basic information which will assist farmers in planning their business operations in 1936. It is, of course, impossible to take into consideration drastic changes in international affairs which might develop before the close of the year. The report, however, presents an analysis of the factors most likely to affect farm income in the coming year."

A particularly valuable feature of the report is the summarized conclusions published by the sub-committee with respect to each of the important cereal grains and the several divisions of livestock, together with the reasons which lead up to these conclusions.

One who reads the bulletin cannot fail to be impressed with the fact that, generally speaking, the position of agriculture has shown improvement in the past year and that the factors in support of further improvement in 1936 are material, but it should be pointed out that the farmer who is carefully and intelligently studying the situation is the farmer who is in the best position to take advantage of this prospective continuing upward trend.

The pamphlet should be in the hands of every farmer in the prairie provinces and is worthy of study by all who are interested in the welfare of agriculture in the west and that means every citizen of the three provinces.

If Heart Is Healthy

Operations On It Can Be Performed With Success

A news item from Philadelphia reminds us that the heart, when healthy, can stand a lot of punishment, and that surgeons are still performing marvels. A youth was stabbed in a street argument and rushed to the hospital, where they put four stitches in his heart. He is reported to have a fair chance of recovery.

That a man may live after his heart has been pierced is well known to surgeons. One of the most remarkable cases on record is that of Sir Arthur Sloggett, whose heart was pierced by a sharp pointed bullet from a rifle in the hands of a Mahdi rebel, at the battle of Khartoum. Sir Arthur lived 44 years after the wound. Another interesting case was that of a British war veteran who was wounded by a German bullet in 1917, and who lived with the missile in his heart for 12 years. He died of Bright's disease.

An operation as delicate as that performed on the Philadelphia youth was undertaken successfully by Dr. Claude S. Beck on a man suffering from angina pectoris. He severed the end of the pectoral muscle in the man's chest and fastened it to the wall of the heart to encourage the flow of blood, slowed down by the disease. Resourceful was a Canadian, Dr. Samuel Cleman, operating on a man for appendicitis in Southend hospital, England. The patient's heart stopped beating, and Dr. Cleman swiftly and skilfully made another incision above the first. Inserting his hand, he gently massaged the patient's heart. It started beating again and the man recovered.

Missionary Will Be Honored

Carried Out Pioneering Work Among Indians At Cost

One of British Columbia's outstanding pioneer Indian missionaries, Rev. Charles Montgomery Tate, will be honored in June this year with the unveiling of a bronze memorial plaque in St. Andrew's-Wesley United church, in connection with Vancouver's golden jubilee celebrations.

Born in England, he worked there in his youth as a butcher boy. He came to British Columbia at the age of 17 to make his fortune in the Cariboo gold mining fields, but was told by miners in Victoria that the Cariboo Eldorado had been disappointing.

He then went to Nanaimo to work in the coal mines. Soon a strike of the miners threw him out of work and he began to visit with the Indians and to teach them the English language.

Later he was given a position teaching the Indians and was paid $5 per month. In 1879 he was ordained at the first Methodist conference in Victoria.

Mr. Tate translated portions of the scripture into the Chinook language; established a boarding school for Indian children at Sardis, B.C., which later was called the Coqualeetza Institute, and did a great deal of other pioneering work amongst the Indians.

He died in Vancouver in February, 1933, at the age of 80.

The Vimy Pilgrimage

Some Employees Granted Leave Of Absence With Pay

One event presently warning the hearts of transportation executives is the pilgrimage to Vimy organized by the Canadian Legion for July, 1936. Some 5,000 men expected to participate, and the mission in France will conclude with the unveiling of the Canadian War Memorial on July 26. Many have already shown their desire to cooperate with the boys who fought for "over there" by enabling them to take advantage of this opportunity. In some cases four to six weeks leave-absence with pay has been granted to ex-soldier employees.

In their brief day they caught the torch, held it high. We, in our small way should help perpetuate the memory of those who passed "on." Canadian Business.

Beard Great Protection

More Necessary In Morocco Than Night Fires Or Rifles

Flowing beards were more protective than rifles and night fires in Morocco for Kenneth Chapman and A. E. Cozens, who returned to Cambridge, England, after an adventurous trip in the lonely heights of the Middle Atlas Mountains. They gathered 2,000 strange insects, including many hitherto unknown species. Wild animals prowled near their little tent at night; swarms of enormous, biting insects invaded them; hostile tribes hovered menacingly around them 7,000 feet up. But their beards saved them. "With the natives of Morocco it pays to grow a beard, which gives you status," said Chapman. "They have no respect for a beardless man. That was one reason. The other was to protect our faces from the giant wingless grasshoppers that were a terrible nuisance. They crawl onto your face and chew it."

London Schoolgirls Refuse To Drink It On That Account

Schoolgirls in London, England, are afraid milk will make them fat. More than 5,000 of them, according to the chief medical officer of the Board of Education, spurned the special milk price of one cent for a pint of a pint during 1935.

A questionnaire revealed that 23 per cent disliked milk "because it is fattening," 1 per cent thought they were "too old" for it and 4 per cent preferred to spend their spare dollars on candy.

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and still worse for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of the Canadian cattlemen, who are together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

Link is the boss of the Rawhide and nearby ranges, who seemed to approve the plan, but was really opposed to it, had forced Soak Torney, a perfect mining engineer, whom Kilgore brought along, to give his expert opinion in favor of the scheme, to reverse his earlier endorsement, and declare that irrigation in those country parts as hamilton a place was concerned, was only a newfangled way to waste money.

The meeting terminates, Buzz Hamilton and his sister, Helen, Link and Kilgo stay behind and discuss the irrigation plan. This angers Buzz, who accuses Fleming of trying to influence his sister and, as he asserts, the plan. But when they get at Fleming in an uncontrollable fit of anger, but Buster Townsend, Link's foreman, is shot in the stomach, and Fleming is hit in the head. He is arrested and a doctor attends Townsend and dresses his wound. Kilgo Roper suggests taking Helen to her home, but she refuses and Fleming escorts her home instead. The incident causes the two to declare open hostility to Fleming.

Helen and Fleming form a partnership to provide irrigation for their own properties. They have their irrigation plan worked out and find Kilgo there ahead of him. Kilgo tries to induce Link to drop his scheme, and when Fleming refuses, gives a signal by taking off his hat, and Link is shot at from outside the house.

Link kicks Kilgo out of the house. Bush Townsend, sentenced to three years' imprisonment for shooting Bud Townsend.

On his way home after the trial of Bush, he overhauled meets Soak Torney, who starts telling Fleming why he withdrew his approval of the water scheme. Just as he was about to tell the name of the man who had forced him to do so, he is shot and killed by a rifle bullet. Link hunts around to find the killer, but finds nothing. He comes across Jackpot Mell watering his horse, and Jackpot warns Fleming that if he wished to live he had better leave the district.

(Now Go On With The Story)

He gave up the search. "I'm obliged about the land. It's going to be worth a good deal more than you and Kilgo thought." Jackpot, he went on slowly, his brown eyes travelling over the man's light figure. "You could have killed Torney, and you wouldn't have turned a hair doing it. I have a hunch somebody made him talk like he did at the meeting. In fact, Soak told me so well," he ended, turning away. "I've got to goose."

"Hold on."

Mel's sallow countenance wore its accustomed look of masked derision but there was a brittle edge to his tone. "Link, you ought to quit these parts. Runnin' a place in town like mine, a man overhears things."

"I see. Just a friendly tip, eh?"

"Shore! We always got on good enough, but I'm not the kind to keep mum to my friends. Seems like I can't remember who I heard talkin'!" He frowned, then winked. "The been lots of different places in my time. Found out it's mighty good sense to git elsewhere before trouble busts out."

"I never did own any baggage, Jackpot," was the drawled reply. "By the way, when you get to town see the sheriff there's a corpse here for him to see."

Mel shrigged, then strode to his horse and mounted. He did not so much as glance back, but urged his roan along the spring bed in the direction of the road. Link followed afoot, watching until the man disappeared toward Rawhide.

He searched another half hour for tracks or some clue to the identity of Soak's killer. There was none. Hearing hoof-beats, he stepped out of the trees onto the road. To his surprise it was Honest John Mulrooney he saw, and Marty Bush, instead of the sheriff.

They pulled up. "Who's lyin' there?"

"Soak Torney. He and I were talkin' and somebody shot him. I haven't found out yet who did it." Bush dismounted. "Do you know why?"

He nodded. "Torney hasn't been seen since the meeting, you know. He slipped out of the trees and stopped me. Started to say who scared him into going against the irrigation scheme at the last minute. Soak was all for it, though, but somebody scared him into talkin' like he did. It looks kind of queer."

He broke off as Sheriff Stephen and the shorter, pudgier figure of Coroner Ed. Sproggins rounded the bend, seated in a buckboard. They drew up and climbed out. Ames went at once to the man who lay on his side in the road. He pursed his lips, stood up eying Fleming, then walked slowly toward him.

"I'm prised you're hangin' around, Link. After killin' a man most guys light out."

The lawman stiffened, uttering an exclamation. Even the unemotional Sproggins blinked and slowly shifted his gaze to Bush.

"Been with him an hour?"

"Have we, Marty, or not?"

The cattle agent struck a match on his boot sole. "Of course."

Fortunately Stephens was not looking at Link at the moment, so that he had time to master the amazement that rippled over his tanned face. When Ames scowled back his expression was calm, uninformative.

"Huh? You claim that too?"

"Might as well, Sheriff. It gets me out of a jam, doesn't it?"

A piercing look was the answer. "Come on, Ames, forget this. It was just a little joke on Mell's part, I reckon." Marty urged. "Why, Fleming isn't a killer! And like he said, it's unreasonable to suppose that if he did shoot Torney, he would wait around an hour for you to come."

Stephen removed his hat and scratched his head. "All right," he decided with irritated reluctance. "You can go, Link. But dang it, I'm goin' to look into this plum thorough! Willin' to swear I didn't have a rifle along to-day?"

"I am."

"And you don't know how Torney got killed?"

"Havent any idea as to the killer now."

"Hm. I ain't satisfied, by a dumb right. Might hear from me later."

Relieved, but trying to keep a tryst of that fact from his face, Fleming soothed his horse. A moment later he rode off with Bush and Mulrooney. When they were out of earshot he faced them.

"Well, what made you do it? Do you know who shot Soak from ambush?"

"Cousin not! But look here, Link; who did?"

"Havent any idea, Marty. Don't even know why Jackpot should want suspicion on me. Why should he try to put me away like Buzz, and maybe for a longer time?"

Honest John looked troubled. "You're too believin' in folks. Why, any dog with a sore foot can tell when it's hard walkin'. Guess you can't, though. Uh—Marty and I figured yuh ain't a killer, so we led him to Ames. Ain't sorry, neither. But—" He hesitated.

"Speak up, John. Both of you have something on your minds. I can see that plain enough."

They exchanged looks. "Yeah. You know that promise I made in meetin', to go along with yuh on this irrigation?"

"Sure. Bush spoke up too. I'm mighty glad you aren't scared of the plan, like all the rest of these old-fashioned cow prodders. Why, there never would be progress if everyone—"

"Wait, wait, yuh?" Mulrooney shifted uncomfortably in his saddle and stared into the distance. "That's what I'm getting at. Yuh see, my old woman's been sick a long time. I have to take yuh in, Link."

Impulse assailed him to whip out his weapon and hold the sheriff at bay until he could make a swift escape. But he stiffered this. It would brand him with the appearance of guilt. He was wholly innocent: the proper thing to do was to insist on that.

Stephen was stretching out his hands with the manacles when John Mulrooney uttered a dry chuckle and stepped close. "Who says Link killed Torney, Sheriff?"

"Jackpot Mell. Claims he hadda git for dear life or he'd have got it too. Says he met Soak, who told him Link kept him prisoner, but he got away. Jackpot didn't know till Link shot that he followed 'em here."

The cattlemen grinned and shook his head. "Ever hear of Mell runnin' his mouth?"

"I'm. Never never did."

"Guess Jackpot keeps too late hours," Mulrooney drawled. "Works on a man's brain like the tremens. Why, this killin' couldn't have happened that way. Ames—not without Marty and me knowin'. We been with Link the last hour."

"Well . . ."

"You feel like the others, that irrigation is some crazy modern scheme for wasting money. I'm grateful for your backing," he said sincerely as he strove to conceal his disappointment.

"I sure am. You did me a good turn both times."

"Aw, Link, you oughtn't go into this water scheme. Why, everybody thinks you're plumb loco!"

They neared the fork in the road where Bush and Mulrooney would turn off. The sultry sky was growing a deeper grey, growing slowly to night. The wind had sharpended to a brittle keeness and snow continued to fall in a steady, melancholy swirl. The Star Loop owner stopped his horse.

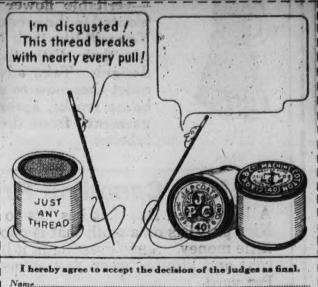

"I believe it, boys."

Bush expelled tobacco juice. "Buzz doesn't, though. If Helen goes in with yuh like I hear you're persuadin' her to, folks'll say you had Buzz put away so she could manage their spread."

Link looked sharply at the cattle agent. "Folks would gossip about sunshine if there was nothing better. That wouldn't concern me. We aim to go through with this thing. I'm on it, sure it will work."

They shook their heads. "There'll be opposition, Link. Like this Soak Torney affair. And that shootin' the other night. Was Kilgo out on a friendly call, or what?"

Predict Present Cold Spell May Be Forerunner of Severe Winters Generally

Washington, February 17. — The present cold spell was reported Friday by the weather bureau to be the most severe in history in many places and possibly the forerunner of more severe winters generally.

J. B. Kinney, chief of the division of climate and crop weather, said the current siege is remarkable primarily because of its length rather than the severity of the cold.

Nevertheless, he said, it has shattered records over the northern part of the United States—and the end apparently is not in sight. Thus far in February the lowest temperature officially recorded here was 40 degrees below zero at Devil's Lake, N.D., this morning. The same mark was reached at Laramie, Wyo., on Feb. 8. The lowest reading ever recorded in the United States in the century of records kept by the bureau was 66 degrees below zero registered at Yel- lowstone Park, on February 9, 1933.

He added his belief that the present abnormal conditions may mark a definite change in the trend of weather back to colder and wetter winters, but emphasized that his observation was not a prediction.

The winter Olympic games in Germany ended in a great victory for Norway. That nation led the world in points, showing superiority in nearly all winter sports. It was a great blow to Canada to lose the hockey title, having to take second place to England. While half the English team were Canadians, the boys who wore the Canadian sweaters felt rather shamefaced over the result. 28 nations were represented, and over a million people saw the contests.

SPORTS

Those Brier games over the radio were replayed in many stores and homes throughout the province using squares of sugar for rocks. The local experts failed to agree with the tactics of the skip, several times. But the important lesson for all curlers is that even those Brier players miss the broom at times; miss a wide-open space by three feet; changing the count 4 or 5 as a result. It is a great game to develop sympathy.

Probably never again will a rink for the Brier trophy be composed of men from different clubs or towns. The placing of the two "Billies", Rose and Murray of Sedgewick on the Wan-derless rink, nearly wrecked the play-off with the Calgary curlers. The rules were not clear as to this. So it was fortunate that good sportsmanship on the part of Sam Savage and his bunch brushed away the protest. Those who have seen Sam Savage go down the ice with his chest thrown out, his head back, and a strut like a pouter pigeon, know that he is a true sport, representative of the best tradition of Calgary curlers. While Sam did not win, he showed them how to take defeat gracefully.

Birger Ruud, of Norway made a couple of jumps with skis at the Olympic games that show him to be a wonder, 244 and 246 feet. After travelling at lightning speed that distance, most people would want a little parachute to permit of a gentle drop to earth. Norway dominated the ski features of the meet.

On the steel blades, too, Norway showed both skill and speed. The pretty girl, Sonja Henie, once again proved the world's greatest fancy skater. She is but 24, yet has been supreme for ten years. As newspapers show her in wonderful pose, the cinema would prove doubly interesting. May the newsreel come soon showing this girl winning her world title as champion.

NOTICE

M. D. OF KINSELLA, No. 424
Studies carried out at the University of Alberta indicate that the fertility of seed grain that has been frosty may be seriously impaired by the use of formalin as a treatment for seed.

It is suggested that farmers consider treating their seed grain with one of the dust germicides, such as improved Ceresan or Lytosan.

If formalin is used the strength of the solution should not be stronger than one part of formalin to 320 parts of water.
